

DEVALERA CALLS OFF ARMED WARFARE

PROGRESSIVES SEE VICTORY FOR NEW INCOME TAX BILL

COMPROMISE ON OFFSET SWINGS SOCIALISTS, ASSERTION.

ASSEMBLY SURE Senate Is Battleground of Committee Measure; Kuckuk Dissents.

Madison.—The progressive republican members of the senate now assert that they have a tax measure in the one reported for passage by the joint committee on finance, that will command enough support to pass the upper house. It is generally conceded that any revenue bill revising the state income tax system can easily go through the assembly.

By compromising on the problem involved in the passage of the personal property offset to the income tax, the finance committee members believe they will be able to hold support of the three socialist upper house members and at the same time get the backing of three progressives who have been opposed to the offset repeal. If this proves to be the case, conservative republican members admit they might not be able to head off passage of the measure with their 14 votes.

Kuckuk to File Dissent. Senator Anton Kuckuk, representing the conservatives, announces that he is going to file a dissenting report as a member of the finance committee, scoring the tactics of the progressives who drew the new tax measure. He claims the wishes of the conservative republicans were not consulted.

The new bill, through the operation of which, it is claimed that $14,000,000 of revenue will be produced annually is largely the Dahl bill with a revised schedule of rates. It is the way it proposes to change the present income tax law.

Assistants to V. E. Klontz for playground work this summer have not been named, although many candidates are being considered. The playground committee of the board of education, Mrs. Alice Holmes, chairman, together with Mr. Klontz and Supt. T. O. Holt, will decide on these people in a few days.

Interurban Hits Auto; Seven Dead

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Detroit.—With the seven victims of the crash identified, Oakland county authorities Monday were investigating circumstances surrounding the collision on Woodward Avenue road, about 10 miles north of Detroit, Sunday night, of an automobile and a southbound interurban car.

In addition to the seven who met death, all of whom were Detroiters, a dozen or more passengers of the interurban were cut by broken glass or were injured when they jumped from the car.

The dead are: Joseph Habinski, 18; Beatrice Chojchuk, 16; Mary Chojchuk, 17; Mary Chojchuk, 18; and Anna Chojchuk, 19; and Alexander Chojchuk, 21, and his brother, Joseph, 18.

According to witnesses of the accident, an automobile containing the first five named, swerved on the interurban tracks to pass another automobile that had stalled. The interurban struck the machine, broke it in pieces and hurled the engine many feet into an automobile occupied by the Balcar brothers. The Balcars were so seriously injured that they died soon after being taken to a hospital. The five other victims of the first motor car were killed instantly and their bodies burned when the gasoline tank of their machine caught fire.

The airbrakes of the interurban were broken by the impact and the motorman was unable to stop the car for two blocks.

COUNTY TO SELL $200,000 BONDS

Bids Will Be Opened, Thursday—Supervisors Meet—Week Later.

The Rock county board finance committee is expected to meet at the court house, Thursday, to open the bids for the $200,000 county concrete highway bonds which have been offered for sale. County Clerk H. W. Lee has advertised the bond sale in the leading financial journals.

The finance committee is composed of Simon Smith, Belmont; J. A. Denning, Janesville; and William L. Crandall, Milton.

The county board will meet a week from Thursday to ratify the sale of the bonds. What other action will be taken at the session in regard to highway or other matters, no one is sufficiently informed to say, but judging by past sessions it will be interesting.

The prizes offered last year will probably be duplicated again this year. For senior and junior calves of all breeds $25, $20, $15, $10, $5, $3, $2, $1, $50, $75, $50, $25, $10, $5, $3, $2, $1.

Special prizes for all breeds were offered for the junior champion, senior champion and grade champion. In the swine department, $15, $10, $8, $6, $4 were prizes offered for pure bred, half-bred, cross-bred sows or barrows, all breeds.

For the pen of three pure bred barrows, or grade or cross-bred sows or barrows, $15, $12, $8 were offered for all breeds.

The boys and girls are to be allowed to enter the best fat barrow contest put on by the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association. The prizes offered in this class are $30, $20, $10, $5, $3, $2, $1. These prizes are certainly worth the efforts of any boy or girl.

In the sheep department, $12, $10, $8, $6, $4 are the prizes offered for wether lambs of all breeds, or ewe, or wether lamb of all breeds.

Special prizes were given for single fat lambs and the pen of three lambs. Any boy or girl in Rock county between the ages of 10 and 18 inclusive is eligible to enter animals in the junior livestock show. The rules state that the contestant must begin taking care of the animal June 1, so that it is essential to get started at once.

The Rock county fair management is making a special effort to induce the boys and girls of Rock county to prepare animals for the junior livestock show at Madison, offering excellent prizes in the above classes.

City Ball League Gets on Its Way With Wide Wins

CITY INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

WIXOM INQUEST SET FOR TUESDAY

District Attorney Stanley G. Dunwidie and County Coroner Lynn A. Whaley will be in conference Monday, making final arrangements for the coroner's inquest into the death of George E. Wixom to be held in the municipal court room starting at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

From eight to 10 witnesses will be examined, including: Dr. Fred E. Sutherland and Dr. T. J. Snodgrass. Each member is requested to bring a suggestion of work for the coming year. Light refreshments will be served.

The May festival participated in by more than 500 school children, will be held in Central park Tuesday afternoon, beginning promptly at 5 o'clock. The march will be led by the May queen, Miss Mildred Nelson, and her attendants. The parade will consist of a flag drill, games and national dances, given in costume under the supervision of Miss Gladys Whitaker, teacher of manual education, and Miss Ruth Hickard, supervisor of music.

Outcome Is Important

The fate of Irving Hanson, Milwaukee, and Richard Maas, Janesville, formerly of Edgerton, rests largely on the outcome of the inquest, Tuesday. It is understood both now face a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Wixom case, with no date set for their hearing. The general belief is that this charge against them will be dismissed if the coroner's jury returns a verdict that they were in no way responsible for Wixom's death which came as a result of a charge of drinking in which all three participated the night of May 2. Maas and Wixom were Chevrolet employees and Hanson was in charge of driveways of Chevrolts for the Anger Motor company, Milwaukee.

Both Hanson and Maas are out on bail and their interests are expected to be represented at Tuesday's inquest by Francis E. Govey, Milwaukee, and George W. Blanchard, Edgerton, respectively.

Whaley in Charge

Coroner Whaley will preside at the inquest with District Attorney Dunwidie doing the bulk of the questioning of witnesses.

"Although we will have from eight to 10 witnesses to examine, I don't look for the inquest to take a very long time," said Mr. Dunwidie. "They will be asked to merely state the facts in the case and so far as I know there is nothing in dispute."

The result of Professor Smith's analysis, which has not yet been made public, is expected to be a determining factor in aiding the jury to reach a decision. Without this test, no one has been able to say definitely whether Wixom died as a result of drinking after a heavy supper, exposure from being placed on the lawn in front of his home at the close of the party, from poisonous liquor or a fall on the Jackson street bridge during the evening, or a combination of all these causes.

Repeals mill taxes for the common schools, university and normal schools amounting to nearly $7,000,000.
Repeals the income surtax to fund the teachers' retirement fund law amounting to $1,000,000.
4 Percent Flat Rate.
To meet the deficit caused by these repeals, it proposes a four per cent rate on corporation earnings, which cannot be offset by personal property taxes. It taxes stock dividends the same as income and establishes the following rates on individual incomes:
On the first $1,000 of taxable income—one per cent.
On the second $1,000 of taxable income—one and 1/2 per cent.
On the third $1,000 of taxable income—two per cent.
On the fourth $1,000 of taxable income—two and 1/2 per cent.
On the fifth $1,000 of taxable income—three per cent.
On the sixth $1,000 of taxable income—four per cent.
On the seventh $1,000 of taxable income—five per cent.
On the eighth $1,000 of taxable income—six per cent.
On the ninth $1,000 of taxable income—seven per cent.
On the tenth $1,000 of taxable income—eight per cent.
On the 11th to 14th $1,000—nine per cent.
All over $15,000—10 per cent.
Exemptions under the income tax law remain at $800 for single persons and $1,200 for married persons with an increase from $200 to $300 in the exemption for each child.
Division of the revenue is made so that the state retains 50 per cent, the cities get 40 per cent and 10 per cent goes to counties.
By compromising on the personal property offset so any individual income taxpayer can still offset his income tax, the bill cuts off about one third of the off-set according to committee members.
While socialist members were demanding complete repeal of the personal property offset, they are said by progressive republican members to be willing to accept the compromise, which leaves the offset intact for individuals.
The progressives say they are prepared to present a solid front on the tax question now that the committee has reported a compromise bill.
Robert M. La Follette, Jr., sponsor.

tary to Senator La Follette, reports that the five senators who were reported by some of their number to be unwilling to enter the agreement to support a new tax plan, have now receded from their stand and are ready to support the new bill.
It is also reported that Governor Blaine will sign the measure if it passes both houses. He is said by some progressive members to be willing that his bill should be relegated to a position in the background while the new tax measure is being pushed.
The first test for the committee bill will be taken Wednesday, June 6. At that time both sides say that they are willing to go to the mat and dispense of the bill one way or the other. When this is done the end of the session will be in sight.

12 Confirmed by Pastor Treu at St. Paul's Church

A class of 12 was confirmed at the Sunday evening service at St. Paul's Lutheran church by the Rev. E. A. L. Treu. The class included seven adults and five students of the state school for the blind.
A for confirmation, the 12 were admitted to holy communion. Previous to confirmation, the members of the class had received instructions for several months in the main parts of the bible. In his main address to the catechumens on Joshua 24-25, the pastor dwelt on the importance and meaning of Lutheran confirmation, emphasizing that a thorough instruction in the Christian doctrine, coupled with a sincerity in the profession of the Christian faith are the main essentials of the confirmation. The church was filled almost to capacity.
The adults confirmed were Morrell Cleveland, Royal Sienke, Leslie Schoonover, Herbert Nyhr, Oscar Martin, John Edwin Hill and Mrs. William Peske. The five from the school for the blind were Harry Grief, Lester Loken, Alfred Schmidt, Hazel Schlenger and Elda Syrja.

Miss Janesville Says—

I interviewed an old man a few days ago. He was nearly 80 and I thought he might be able to tell me something of the old days of importance and interest. The most he could think about was that once upon a time, with great detail, he had tanned a woodchuck hide and nailed it to the barn and it was stolen.

What a lot of new, shiny, automobiles one sees on the streets.

$700 DAMAGE IN BARN FIRE, SUNDAY

Boys lighting matches to hunt for pheasants are believed by the chief of police to have been responsible for a blaze which did approximately $700 damage to the large barn in the rear of the home of Dr. Wayne A. Munro, 522 South Main street, Sunday afternoon. Dr. Munro's coupe and a truck owned by him were rescued from the barn undamaged, and there was no cutting in the building at the time the fire broke out.

Several hundred neighbors and Sunday motorists gathered to watch the flames, and some of the traffic was blocked for a half hour because of two leads of hose across it, attached to the hydrant at Talcott street intersection. The blaze spreading rapidly when they arrived in response to a still alarm and a call from box 32, South Main and Racine streets, at 4:35 p. m. but succeeded in extinguishing it after it had gutted and partially destroyed the second story and roof of the up-right. A lean-to on the north side was not badly damaged. Several stanchions and other contents were burned.

All companies of the fire department responded to the alarm and 1,400 feet of hose was laid. In attempting to throw open a burning door, fireman Herbert Flanery had one hand badly burned and it was attended by Dr. Munro. Several stanchions and other contents were burned.

AT THE THEATRES

Laurette Taylor brings one of the most charming personalities of the stage to the screen in "Peg of Old Heart," her famous stage success, which opened a short run at the Beverly theater Sunday. Audiences were large and laughter and chuckles were constant throughout the picture. The plot is simple and there were a touch of pathos crept in.

Almost everybody knows the story of Peg of Old Heart, the girl who for pecuniary relatives to instill in her a little of their ancient culture, how she revivifies the old and how she lives after time: how she runs back home to her dear Irish father, and how the titled lord, who she knew only as Jerry, comes to her.

Only Laurette Taylor could make Peg of Old Heart such a delightful character. Many of the clever stage lines have been retained, although the play has for few "changes" of scenery, those shown are beautiful and in keeping with the plot. The picture is a real performance by Laurette Taylor, who, but not least, Michael, her dog, who went through 1,100 stage performances with her.

Putting on the Screws.
As this is written the Mullan-Gage repeal bill has not been signed nor vetoed by Governor Al Smith. Since the legislature of New York adjourned, the pressure upon the governor both for and against signing the bill, which would do away with law enforcement by the state of New York, has been terrific. The New York World, leader of the wets in the state and desirous of dividing with the Chicago Tribune that questionable honor for the nation, calls upon Governor Smith to sign. "Will Smith Wreck His Party?" is the headline in one editorial in which it is pointed out that the very fundamentals on which the democratic party elected Smith are the support of light wines and beer and repeal of the wicked and malign enforcement law, known as the Mullan-Gage act. Tammany Hall, living from the scraps thrown to it by law violators and taking toll from vice in petticoats, unorganized or the larger organized vice, has threatened the governor with oblivion.

On the other hand some of the Anti-saloon league friends of prohibition have been equally free in threats and statements that are more hysterical than sound. "If you sign this bill you will be guilty of treason," says Mr. Wheeler, head of the league. Of course Governor Smith would not be guilty of treason if he signed the act. Treason is something greater and more profound in action. There is nothing in the constitution of the United States on which to base a statement of that kind. It is intemperate language and only serves to defeat the purpose of the league. The wonder is, to one who is outside and knows the affiliations of Gov. Smith in the past, that he has had the backbone to stand up this long against signing a bill which no one supposed he would for a moment hesitate concerning. But Governor Smith has been confronted with this situation: the state of New York is a part of the United States and as such there is an obligation to uphold the laws of the nation. Legislation for that purpose is not mandatory and refusal therefore would not constitute treason. Massachusetts, Maryland, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania have been without enforcing legislation; heretofore, Pennsylvania has passed an enforcement act at the present session of the legislature but the legislature has repeatedly refused to appropriate any funds for carrying out its provisions. And we have been enforcing the laws against liquor there all the time through federal action. Then too, there are thousands of supporters of Gov. Smith "up state" in New York who are opposed to Tammany and give earnest support to the prohibition laws.

If Governor Smith refuses to sign the repeal bill it may not be his death warrant. The whole of the United States is not east of Buffalo. There are a great many voters west of the alien city of New York. No man who has come to a National convention in 50 years as the outspoken candidate of Tammany has won a democratic nomination. Smith may be better off without Tammany and its friends than with it. So he can afford to ignore the threats of political dissolution made to intimidate him.

What we need just at this time is a few sun-kissed beans and peas.

The New Tax Bill.
Those members of the legislative joint finance committee who call themselves progressive republicans have made up a new tax bill after throwing all others into the discard, ignoring the members who do not play in their yard and doing in a few hours what careful consideration of details might demand greater care, and the incorporation of more than a few political expedients in order to perfect a measure carrying a levy of $14,000,000. The personal property offset is continued for private persons, while corporations will pay both personal property and income tax, and a graduated levy of income and corporation taxes, is to provide all the money which an extravagant government might need.

It is a political bill, made for political purposes, lacking even the merit which the authors of the Dahl and the Sevenson sur-tax bills had put into them in personal study and investigation of tax questions. As the Gazette has repeatedly said, any tax bill passed by the legislature will be temporary. It does not solve the question of honestly levied and collected taxes for state expenditures. It is a makeshift and will be a question as acute and as necessary for solution two years hence as it is now. No great principle is being established in the new bill unless it may be said that the abolition of the mill tax is such.

The tax question is one that should be given two years of investigation by those who are less interested in expediency than they are in principles. That is what the members of the committee who were not consulted in this new bill wanted done. As it is, there is no greater probability that the new committee bill will receive other than factional support and the same difficulty and embarrassments will arise as have made the legislature a butt of ridicule for the last five months.

After perusing a few reams concerning church troubles over monkey-licensing and liberal and fundamental doctrines, one is impressed with the crying need for better teaching now as how to

SAVING SIGHT
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington.—Predictions by scientists that we are likely to have a cold and the ice business, which will be bad for crops and the ice business, bring home to us once more the uncertain and unknowable character of the celestial heating plant on which life on this terrestrial globe depends. It is like a big bonfire which is slowly but surely burning out, which cannot be replenished, and which does not burn at all evenly. At times it seems a little lull, like a furnace fired by an automatic. Weather all spring has been more surprising than satisfactory. While the middle west recently was blanketed by a heavy May snowstorm, places in California sweltered in over 100 degrees of heat, and trains have been crowded with people taking premature summer vacations to escape it. Crops in some parts of the United States have been burned up by the blazing sun, and in other, grain has been retarded and fruit killed by unaccountable cold snaps.

Meantime Dr. C. G. Abbott of the Smithsonian Institution, has made the surprising discovery that the temperature of the earth has fallen off in the last few months three or four percent. For some reason it has not been absorbing its usual amount of heat.

The word "usual" in this connection can be safely used only as referring to comparatively short periods of time. If you take a long view of the case, there seems to be nothing usual about the temperature of the earth. It varies unaccountably. Time was when the present site of New York city was covered by an Arctic ice cap, and there was another time when the present coal fields of Pennsylvania were covered by vast semi-tropical jungles. Now the sun is sending which two-ton disasters splashed and flicked. The climate of this country, as we know it, is a comparatively recent development, and it is certainly a temporary thing.

It is good for the soul to remember that, as far as scientists can determine, the sun must inevitably burn out and leave us all in the dark. That will be some billions of years hence. Even so, it makes the price of sugar and the non-stop dancing record seem less important. To realize that the whole human race is an accidental and temporary thing, like green scum on a wet stone. Our little stone is going to get colder and colder, in all probability, and the area of it which man can inhabit will steadily decrease. Probably civilization will fight valiantly against conditions becoming ever more rigorous, and will finally perish. Man, perhaps, will revert to savagery and then take the backward path of evolution still farther, grow a coat of fur and become a huge Arctic anthropoid ape, living in holes in the ice. Finally he will perish, with all other life, and the earth will go spinning through space like a cold cinder pitched into the ash can.

All that is a long way in the future, but climatic changes which will affect every one of us may be just ahead. At least the scientists, while most of them refuse to commit themselves, admit the possibility of an unusually cold summer. It is remembered that the year 1816 was known as the "year without a summer" and the weather men are looking up the records to see if they shed any light on the present situation.

Most of them seem to blame the situation on the sun spots. These huge spots, which move across the disk of the sun in regular rotation, have been puzzling scientists ever since Galileo. They have been generally believed, but never proved, to have a definite effect on the weather. Once they were believed to be huge masses of slag floating in the sea of molten metal which the sun was supposed to be. Now the sun is regarded as a mass of solid and gaseous matter, all mixed up, and the sun spots are described as "vast disturbances in the field of electro-magnetic force that surrounds the sun."

It would seem that they can best be likened, for the layman, to huge whirlpools in a mass of hot gas, which draws down to the sun colder gases from a distance, so forming a cloud before it, as it appears to us. It is easy to imagine that such clouds might cut off radiation and so reduce the temperature of the earth. But the latest scientific dope is that the sun spots are now at a minimum, and that the cold weather is due to that fact. It is explained that as the clouds of gas which constitute the spots diminish in size, the materials of which they are formed make a crust upon the sun and cut off some of its heat.

It is a deep question, anyway, and one comes away from his researches on the subject with no strong conviction except that the sun is not as reliable a piece of machinery as he had always believed it to be, and that the wise will be prepared for almost anything in the way of weather and climate in the near future.

The sun spots, it appears, are huge affairs, often six times as wide as the diameter of the earth. Let us hope they do not grow. They have been photographed with a machine called a spectroheliograph, and the pictures show plainly that they are whirls in some kind of a substance but that seems to be about all.

Meantime, another Washington scientist, Herbert J. Brown, sees the freakish weather we have had recently as the latest of a series of climatic changes which have been taking place in a regular cycle, and can be traced for centuries. He appears not to have offered any explanation of the reasons, but to have contented himself with a historical study. He told a congressional investigating committee some time ago that this spring and summer would be cool and peculiar, and that such weather will continue for the next few years and culminate in very unfavorable weather for crop purposes about 1927.

He claims his researches show that periods of cold and unreasonable weather come in cycles of 123 and 148 years, and also in a larger cycle of 211 years, which brings the worst weather of all. The year 1044, was a famine year wherever records are available, and another one came along in the year 1315, when there were short crops all over Europe. He cites many other historical famines and droughts to prove his point.

The famous cold summer of 1816 has been explained as due to the fact that a great many volcanic eruptions occurred in that year, including those of Japan, Mayon and Tambora. The idea is that the clouds of volcanic debris over the earth sheltered it from the rays of the sun.

For the ultimate consumer, there are compensations in almost any kind of weather. We may have to pay more for bread in a cold year, but on the other hand we won't need so much ice.

live on this earth so as to bring the greatest amount of comfort and peace and happiness to the peoples.

We shall now proceed to dig up the standard summer headlines: "Didn't know it was loaded," "He Rocked the Boat," and "Went in over his head."

PERMANENT
These are the permanent things:
The song that Philomel sings,
The blue of the sky and the breeze,
The bud and the leaf of the trees,
The ripple of silvery streams,
The stars that shine in the grass—
The flash of the lightning and the grass—
All these shall remain when we pass.
Forever the young rain shall sigh
When she that he loves passes by
The stars shall shine down on the lane
Where love tells its story again;
The laughter of babes shall be sweet,
The brook and the ocean shall meet,
And centuries after we're gone
The rose shall be blossoming on.

Violets and daisies shall bloom
In spite of man's death and the tomb;
Mothers shall hear with delight
The call of their babies at night
From cradle to grave men shall fare
And each with his burden to bear,
All we have seen they shall see,
All we have been they shall be.
Sorrow shall come with the night,
Joy with the days that are bright,
Men shall rejoice in their own
Long and short of their own;
They shall exist in success
And grieve at the touch of distress,
Though nations shall flourish and wane,
The beauties of life shall remain.

SOLILOQUY.
The sun is shining,
The sky is clear
As a woman's skin
Is supple and clear
After she uses her
Beauty Clay.
A gentle breeze
Passes over my troubled brow
And cools it soothingly
As a pretty nurse
Calms the most fevered patient.
Ah about me
People hustle and bustle
In a happy, lively
Mood.
While I, alone, am
Dreary.
A poignant lethargy
Is creeping upon me
And enfolds me
Conformingly.
Lazily
I gaze around me
(I always liked myself)
Draw down my eyelids
And softly murmur of the
Joys of a refreshing nap
And resolve to take
The day off
From melancholy and
Dreary work.
Why?
And then I remember.

Who's Who Today

GEN. LAWRENCE D. TYSON.
The expected entrance of Gen. Lawrence D. Tyson in the senatorial race in Tennessee in 1924 presages an interesting political battle. It is considered probable that Gen. Tyson will oppose Senator John K. Stover for the Democratic nomination.

General Tyson has not formally announced his candidacy but has made known to friends his intention to run. The general is an ardent admirer of former president Wilson and was an advocate of the ratification of the league of nations with reservations. This is in contrast to Shields, who was noted as one of the irreconcilables who fought the president and the league to the last ditch. Gen. Tyson is a lawyer, manufacturer and soldier. He is a graduate of West Point. He was an officer in the Spanish American war and commanded the Fifty-ninth brigade of the thirteenth division when that organization broke the Hindenburg line in the world war.

His only son, McWhorter Tyson, gave his life in the world war while serving as a naval flier off the British coast. Judge Nathaniel D. Bachmann of Tennessee, supreme court former governor Malcolm R. Patterson and former senator Luke Lea are the others mentioned as possible candidates.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
May 28, 1883.—A committee from the county board and representative today visited the county poor and insane hospital at Johnsonville, erected in 1832, when the county decided to take care of its chronic insane. The building has accommodations for 102 inmates, and has been fitted to capacity this past winter.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
May 28, 1893.—School commissioners met last night and decided unanimously that the old high school is too small, and that a new building is a necessity. The chief difficulty seems to be in finding a good central location. —Janesville, through the Y. M. C. A. will soon have one of the best gymnasiums in the state. George McKee is chairman of the committee.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
May 28, 1903.—City mail carriers will soon be given an additional half hour's work each day, so that new parts of the city can be visited and more service given. Another radical change will be stopping delivery of mail from the general window in the evenings, Postmaster Nowlan reports. A motion to build an iron fence around the new monument in the park will be made tomorrow.

TEN YEARS AGO
May 28, 1913.—Police commissioners met last night and accepted the resignation of Captain John Brown. Officer Simon Dorn and Fireman Allen J. Pierce, Senior A. class, as a class to be given a room at Mercy hospital. —Five farmers have been arrested for selling milk from defective cans. The city will soon for the state U. C. AND EVERY THING NICE
Human milk contains about 7 per cent of sugar (lactose) and 4 per cent of fat. Cow's milk contains only about 4 per cent of lactose. The bambino evidently needs more sugar than the adult needs. But cow's milk contains about 3 1/2 per cent of proteids (the curd part) as compared with only 1 1/2 to 2 per cent of proteids in human milk. The calf evidently has more building material. The proportion of fat in human milk and cow's milk are about the same, say 4 per cent.

The first requirement in modifying cow's milk for the feeding of a young baby is dilution with water, in order to diminish the proportion or strength of the curd part, and bring it down to something like the proteid strength of human milk. But when cow's milk is thus reduced with water, say half and half the proportion of fat and sugar in it is also reduced. We don't want to cheat the baby out of his fair ration, so we add some sugar to the food mixture to bring the proportion of sugar up to something like that in human milk. Either lactose (sugar of milk) may be used, if that is too expensive, ordinary cane sugar will serve very well for most babies. Likewise we won't mean to rob the baby of his proper ration of fat, which carries the vitamin of the milk. So we also add to the food mixture some fresh cream or top milk to bring the proportion of fat in the formula up to something like that of human milk.

Another important point of difference between human milk and cow's milk, which must be taken into consideration in the feeding of the baby, is that the proteid of cow's milk, besides being two or three times stronger than the amount in human milk (the curd grows just twice as fast as the bubbling one), consists chiefly of casein, which curdles in large, tough curds in the process of digestion, whereas the proteid of human milk is chiefly just albumin, which curdles in small, flocculent curds in the normal process of digestion in the baby's stomach.

So when the calf says "Baa-baa" he means "Don't be alarmed, for I've got plenty of rennin in my stomach, and just the right kind of pancreatic juice to take care of dem curds." The proteid problem is taken care of, in modifying cow's milk for infant feeding, not only by reducing the milk, but also by various procedures which prevent the formation of large tough curds. These procedures serve

Q. What are fox dogs? G. O. A.
This name is applied by certain naturalists to the wild dogs of South America because of their fox-like appearance. Among these are the crab-eating dog, the zorro, or Azura's dog, and the maned wolf.

Q. What is the value of rubber goods consumed in this country? A. M. P.
American manufacturers produce annually rubber goods valued at approximately $1,000,000,000, nine-tenths of which is consumed in the United States.

Q. Why is it believed that the life on Mars, if there is life there, is more advanced than that on the earth? A. W. P.
The basis of belief is that Mars is smaller than the earth and must have cooled its surface millions of years before the earth did. Hence if there is life on Mars it must have begun long before life on the earth and would have had a far longer period of development.

Q. Is it possible for feeble-minded parents to have normal children? R. C. H.
Almost with out exception, if both parents are feeble-minded none of the children will be normal. In heavy studies of this subject this was found to be true in 11 out of 482 children whose parents were feeble-minded.

Q. How much was the tax on whiskey when such taxes were first levied in this country? M. C. G.
Under the first excise tax which was recommended by Hamilton in 1790 the duty on all native spirits was from 5 to 25 cents a gallon, according to the strength.

Q. What circumstance forced the vote of the Essex on the Declaration of Independence? A. H. D. B.
It has been said that after several days of wrangling as Thomas Jefferson had prepared it that the delegates were weary and returned from a nearby livery stable. The delegates so vociferously the vote was taken to accept the declaration as drafted, so as to escape from the files.
